ANGRY WOMAN'S OFFENSE.

Smashed Doors and Windows in a Neighbor's House. Ella Fewell went on a rampage yesterday evening when she was searching for her husband. Officer Hayden of the fourth precinct locked her up. Three charges were placed against her, one for disorderly conduct, a second for destroying private property and the third for earrying concealed weapons. She was found gullty on all three charges, but an earnest appeal for mercy was made by Attorney Peter Bacon, based on the fact that the woman has a young baby, and the sentences were made lighta total of seventy-five days in jail, in default of $55 fine.

On arriving home Ella found her husband away from the paternal hearth, at 319 C street southwest. She went over to the house of John Williams at 253 3d street southwest, where she found him. She could not get into the house through the door, so she proceeded to transfer a pile of stones from the road through a window into the house. Window frame, panes and all were smashed.

There was also a fight between Williams and the enraged woman because Williams objected to the breaking of his window. Ella started back to her home, indulging in profanity and flashing a razor in one Fully two hundred people gathered around her when the officer entered the group. "Did-you use the razor?" asked the attor ney of Ella when she was on the stand in the court today.
"No, sir, I didn't use it; the officer didn't give me a chance," replied Ella. J. H. Small & Sons, Florists, 14th and G sts., Washington; Waldorf-Astoria and 1153 Broadway, New York, -Advertisement.

Restoration of Calvert Mansion. An informal lunch was given yesterday at the old Calvert mansion at Riverdale, Md., to a party of ladies and gentlemen interested in restoring the manor to its original condition. This venerable pile has been the center of a series of entertainments, among them recently being a society ball. At the meeting yesterday quite a number of distinguished persons were present, some forelgners of rank who are interested in the French part of the history of Riverdale and some otherwise connected historically with this place; some of them relatives of the Calverts from the old shores; some rela-tives of Gen. #### Sent to Reform School.

Clarence White, colored, was sent to the reform school to stay until he is twentyone years old by Judge Mullowny in the Juvenile Court yesterday. The boy was arraigned for the larceny of some harness belonging to Maurice McAuliffe from a stable in the rear of 413 G street southwest. White denied the charge, but two persons to whom he attempted to sell the harness identified him and the harness. The records showed that White had been arrested three times before and convicted twice for similar offenses, and for that reason it was suggested by Probation Officer Copp that the reform school was the place for him.

Complaint Against Street Cars.

Another complaint against the noise and speed of cars on the Washington Railway and Electric Company's principal crosstown line has been sent to the Commissioners. Not long ago residents of 17th street and Connecticut avenue registered their disapproval of the disagreeable features of street car traffic on that portion of the line, and yesterday afternoon a petition signed by about twoscore merchants in the block between 13th and 14th streets on F street northwest was forwarded to the District authorities with a request that the 'nuisance' be abated. The petitioners al-lege that the method of operation of the big cars on F street is not only annoying on account of the noise, but that it is danger-ous on account of the usually crowded con-dition of the thoroughfare.

William G. Crawford to Appear for Second Hearing November 27. The second trial of William G. Crawford, indicted with August W. Machen and George E. Lorenz for conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with a contract for furnishing the . Post Office Department with letter carriers' satchels and straps, will proceed the 27th instant in Criminal Court No. 1. The court today overruled a motion of the defense for a postponement of the hearing until after the Christmas holidays.

Crawford was tried last spring, but the jury was unable to agree. Several weeks ago the second trial was set for the 27th instant. Attorney A. S. Worthington of counsel for the defense appeared this morning and moved for a postponement, basing the same on the fact that former Secretary of the Treasury John G. Carlisle, his associate in the case, will be engaged about the date mentioned in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, if he shall then be physically able to appear in any court. It was explained that Mr. Carlisle is now ill and confined to his bed.

The granting of the motion was opposed by Mr. D. W. Baker, United States attorney for the District of Columbia, and by Major Holmes Conrad, special counsel for the government in the Post Office Depart-

Charged With Stealing Cloth.

George E. Edwards withdrew a plea of not guilty to a charge of larceny in the Police Court today and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $25, in default of which he will be confined in the District jail for sixty days.

Edwards was employed by Clinton A Ford in his tailor shop. While the employer was away on a trip three pieces of cloth disappeared from the shop. Detectives Peck and Warren were assigned to the case and they arrested Edwards. He admitted the larceny of two of the pleces and they were recovered through him. He steadfastly denied the larceny of the third piece, even when urged by Judge kimball in the court room today.

CARE OF DISTRICT HORSES. Superintendent Stidham Recommends

Change in Policy. Because the season for sprinkling streets is almost ended, Superintendent Stidham of the street cleaning department is contemplating arrangements for caring for the horses used in that service during the ensuing winter. About ten horses of the thirty in the sprinkling squad have been recommended for sale, but the remaining twenty are the cause of most concern. Last winter the experiment was tried of loaning the horses to local contractors, who were obligated to provide them with shelter and food, but, it is said, the animals were returned in the spring in such bad shape that such a plan will not be followed again. Mr. Stidham states that he can probably find a boarding place on a farm not far from the city for all of the twenty animals at a cost of about $8 per month appece. Allowing for depreciation due to constant use, and equally for improvement in the condition of the horses on account of being permitted to rest for four months, it is estimated that the latter plan would prove much the better.

He was taken to poration counsel and by them approved it will be possible hereafter to store not more than ten tons of baled hay, straw, jute, rags or other inflammable material in any building, except stores, within the District. Under the old regulation it was permissible for any dealer to keep on hand as much as twenty tons of such materials. Similarly the quantity of unbaled hay, straw, jute. etc., allowed to be kept in any building is reduced from 1,000 pounds to 500 pounds. This amendment to the regulations was suggested by the complaint of residents of 11th street northwest in a petition in which they sought to restrain the storage of large quantities of old paper, rags, etc., in buildings in their vicinity. # HALLS OF THE

To the Public:

With a forced sale of my life work in these Halls imminent on the 18th instant, by default of interest and taxes of the bankrupt syndicate, original owners. I find it is impossible to reach individual citizens of Washington by invitation, as attempted late Monday p.m.

Few, proportionately, of the citizens of Washington have seen these Halls. I wish to teil all their "STORY."

Therefore I invite the public to visit them gratiated for one week to the 23d. if they will bring nickely and dimes to buy the Illustrations, and the richet Washington Magazine, 50 pps., 29 illustrations, printed in 1904, 10,000 copies, setting forth my plan for the "National Society for the Aggrandizes ment of Washington."

I shall endeavor to speak dully in the Assyrian
